THE COVER

The drawing on the Cover is the work of a young British Muslim lady, the daughter of the late Mr. Isma'il de Yorke. One sees in the design the Arabic word "Allah", superimposed on the Ka'bah in the background, whereas in the lines of the letters of the word "Allah" have been interwoven the flags of various Muslim countries, and also of those countries where the Muslims form a powerful minority.

THE CONTRIBUTORS

S. M. Tufail, M.A., a Pakistani Muslim, is the Imam of the Shah Jehan Mosque, Woking, England.

Francis Angold, an Englishman, is interested in the study of comparative religion.

'Isam 'Azzam is an Egyptian Muslim Scholar.

Afzal Iqbal, a Pakistani Muslim, is a member of the Senior Administrative Service of the Government of Pakistan. His recent monograph, The Thought and Life of Jalal-ud-Din Rumi, has received praise from Western scholars.

Olive Toto is an English Muslim lady.

G. H. Neville-Bagot, an Irish scholar, is keenly interested in the problems of the North African Muslim countries.

THE COVER

The picture on the Cover is that of the world-famous Court of the Lions in the Palace of al-Hamraa' (the Alhambra) at Granada, Spain. The building of the Palace was begun by a Moorish King, Ibn al-Ahmar (1248 C.E.), and completed by his grandson, Muhammad III, about 1314 C.E. The principal decorator was Yusuf I, who regilt and repainted the Palace. Traces of his work are preserved in the Palace as it stands today. The picture of the Court of the Lions brings out forcefully the lightness and elegance of the columns and arches and the richness of ornamentation, which are truly unsurpassed and for which it is so deservedly famed.

THE CONTRIBUTORS

¹ Professor Dr. Mir Valiuddin, M.A., Ph.D., an Indian Muslim, is Professor of Philosophy in the Osmania University, Hyderabad-Deccan, India. His recent book, The Qur'anic Sufism, Hyderabad, India, 1959, is a very valuable contribution to the not very extensive literature in English on Sufism.

Dr. Muhammad Nur Nabi, M.A., LL.B., Ph.D., an Indian Muslim, is a research scholar in Muslim philosophy in the Muslim University, Aligarh, India.

William Bashyr-Pickard, B.A.(Cantab.), an English Muslim, is the author of several books on Islam. He also writes poetry and fiction.

Afzal Iqbal, B.A., a Pakistani Muslim, is a member of the Senior Administrative Service of the Government of Pakistan. His monograph, The Thought and Life of Jalal-ud-Din Rumi, has received high praise from Western scholars.

Charles C. Forman, S.T.M., Ph.D., is an American friend of Islam. He is in charge of First Parish in Plymouth, Plymouth, Mass., the United States of America.

THE COVER

The picture on the cover is that of the Shah Jehan Mosque, Woking, built in 1889 by Dr. G. W. Leitner, a well-known Orientalist of his time. The expenses towards the construction of the Mosque were contributed by H.H. the Begum Shah Jehan of Bhopal, India. The Shah Jehan Mosque became a Muslim centre in 1912 when the late al-Haji Khwaja Kamal-ud-Din founded the Woking Muslim Mission and Literary Trust. Ever since it has remained the most important centre of Islam in the West.

THE COVER

The beautiful picture on the Cover is that of the Mihrab of the Yeni Jami' (the New Mosque), one of the most famous mosques for which Istanbul, Turkey, is rightly famous. The mosque is the result of piety of the mothers of three successive Sultans of Turkey. The building was begun in 1598 C.E. and completed some time in the middle of the seventeenth century. In the picture the strikingly beautiful Arabic lettering can be observed.

The Turks are famous for the exquisite mural engraving of Arabic. This art, however, owing to the introduction of the Latin script in Turkey, is fast dying.

THE CONTRIBUTORS

S. Muhammad Tufail, M.A., is a Pakistani Muslim, Imam of the Shah Jehan Mosque, Woking, Surrey, England, and Joint Editor of The Islamic Review.

Mr. K. Rehman is a young Muslim school teacher at Port-Louis, Mauritius. Afzal Iqbal, B.A., a Pakistani Muslim, is a member of the Senior Administrative Service of the Government of Pakistan.
